

Announcing 79 New Grant Recipients

We are happy to announce that 79 organizations were awarded a total of $725,114 in Colorado Sustaining the Humanities through the American Rescue Plan grants. Grant funds were provided by Colorado Humanities and the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) as part of the American Rescue Plan of 2021 to support the response and recovery of the cultural sector from the ongoing impacts of the coronavirus.

More than 100 organizations and individuals submitted a grant application. As the state affiliate of NEH, Colorado Humanities sought to provide emergency funding to the smallest organizations, including local museums, historical societies, and historic sites. More than half of the recipients have budgets of $300,000 or less. Colorado Humanities Executive Director Maggie Coval said, "With NEH SHARP funds, we are able to give Colorado's humanities organizations, in every corner of the state, vital support for operations and capacity building. We are inspired by the grant recipients' resilience and creativity, and look forward to collaborating with them in the future."

Remembering Los Seis

The University of Colorado Boulder will host a "Los Seis de Boulder, Race, and Memory," symposium online November 5 - 6. In May of 1974, during the height of the Chicano movement, six students and activists protesting negative treatment of Mexican-American students at CU Boulder were killed in two car bombings in Boulder. Sessions will include dramatic readings, podcasts, panel discussions, art, and music centered around Los Seis de Boulder and the Chicano movement. The in-person "Lleva Nuestras Voces" featuring Colorado Poet Laureate Bobby LeFebre on November 6 from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. will close the [FSHC Humtalk] National Chautauqua Training Institute Humanities North Dakota and the State Historical Society of North Dakota will host the online Chautauqua Training Institute in 2022. Scholars, actors, storytellers, and humanities faculty will learn how to conceptualize, research, create, present, and market their own Chautauqua character to bring to life on stages all over the nation. Any significant historical figure can be portrayed from any period, culture, or location. The institute is free and applicants will receive a $500 stipend to cover research materials and a $3,500 honorarium upon the completion of a performance.
